FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Global Eagle Entertainment Completes Acquisition of All Remaining Shares of Advanced Inflight Alliance

Solidifies Position as World's Leading Provider of In-flight Content and Connectivity

LOS ANGELES, California, (April 16, 2014) – Global Eagle Entertainment Inc. (Nasdaq: ENT) (Global Eagle) announced today that it has completed its previously announced merger with Advanced Inflight Alliance AG (AIA). Global Eagle acquired the final 6.05% stake in AIA that it did not already own from minority shareholders for a total purchase price of EUR 11.1 million for the shares (EUR 7.63 per share). AIA has now been delisted from the Frankfurt Stock Exchange and trading in its shares has ceased.

Global Eagle is the largest provider of content and connectivity services to the global airline industry. Serving over 150 airlines worldwide, Global Eagle provides the largest offering of movies, TV shows, games, apps, audio products and software. In 2013, Global Eagle delivered content in 47 languages across over 150 countries to overhead, seatback systems, and personal electronic devices. Global Eagle's content products are offered on planes serving over 500 million passengers annually.

"Now that we have 100% ownership of AIA, we can move forward to fully integrate AIA with our other businesses, driving significant operating efficiencies," said Dave Davis, Chief Operating Officer and Chief Financial Officer of Global Eagle. "The combination of AIA with PMG and IFE Services, both of which we acquired in 2013, position Global Eagle as the clear leader in providing media and content services to the global airline industry. As the world of in-flight media migrates to connected platforms, Global Eagle is ideally situated. We offer airlines a combination of connectivity, media content, applications, and advertising and sponsorship opportunities that is unmatched by our competitors."

About Global Eagle Entertainment
