Item 1.01. Entry into a Material Definitive Agreement

Each year, Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc. ("Merrill Lynch") offers certain employees who are integral to the success of its business the opportunity to elect to defer compensation in excess of certain thresholds to provide those individuals with the flexibility of meeting their future income needs. This year, employees of Merrill Lynch whose compensation exceeds $300,000 annually are being offered the opportunity to participate in the Merrill Lynch 2006 Deferred Compensation Plan for a Select Group of Eligible Employees (the "Plan"). Among those employees offered the opportunity to elect to defer under the Plan are the executive officers of Merrill Lynch named in the Company's Proxy Statement for its 2005 Annual Meeting of Shareholders. The terms of the annual deferred compensation plans remain substantially similar from year to year. Employees have the option of electing whether or not to participate in the Plan.

Under the Plan, Merrill Lynch gives employees who are eligible the opportunity to enter into agreements to defer a specified percentage of their compensation or a specified dollar amount. Compensation that may be deferred is cash incentive compensation, adjusted compensation, a sign-on bonus, or other types of compensation.

Employees who elect to participate can defer all or a portion of their cash incentive compensation expected to be received in January of 2006 or, in the case of the Merrill Lynch's Financial Advisors, adjusted compensation paid after January 1, 2006. Employees may elect to defer compensation until a specified date or until retirement from service (except that in the case of the Merrill Lynch's key employees, such election must be six months following retirement). Employees may elect to receive deferred payments in a lump sum or in up to 15 annual installments.

Once the deferral has been made, deferred amounts are recorded in a notional account maintained by Merrill Lynch. Amounts in the notional account are adjusted upward or downward to reflect the performance of return indexes chosen by the participant.

Merrill Lynch charges an annual fee to defray the cost of the Plan to the company. For as long as deferred amounts remain subject to the Plan, Merrill Lynch charges each participant's account at the end of each fiscal year an annual charge of 2.0% of his or her original deferred amounts. This amount is paid to offset Merrill Lynch's delayed tax deduction for the deferred amounts.

The obligations of Merrill Lynch to pay deferred compensation under the Plan are unsecured general obligations of Merrill Lynch, and will rank equally with other unsecured indebtedness of Merrill Lynch that is outstanding from time to time.

The obligations of Merrill Lynch to pay the deferred compensation participants are registered on a registration statement on Form S-8, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on May 20, 2005. The Plan is an exhibit to that registration statement.
